NOTES

25X1

【Dominican Republic: President Balaguer's tough public stand and a show of military force has apparently stymied Communist plans to spark widespread unrest during the nationwide transport strike which began yesterday. [redacted] the walkout was generally effective in the capital and the nation's second largest city, but only scattered disturbances have been reported. Balaguer's political foes hope to use the strike as another club in their campaign to force the President to renounce any plans for re-election next year. They will use the government's uncompromising stand to support charges of "repression," but are unlikely to have much success unless serious disorders occur. [redacted]
